in the maintenance of an individual's hair by cutting, styling, and coloring the hair. Currently, the standard for hairstyling is to use a pair of scissors to trim the hair to a particular style. The scissors are sharpened at a particular angle and the sharpened edge is placed into contact with the hair and then moved along the hair in a particular fashion to style the hair. Scissors have been in use for years. A typical pair of scissors consists of a housing for containing the blades, a handle, and a mechanism for causing the blades to open and close. Examples of
