Petro Trading in Russia RussiaPetro Trading: How the world's biggest oil producer makes its money. In Moscow, the CentralBankWorldly investors often dream of buying oil on the cheap and selling it later on for a profit. The problem is that, with prices having doubled in five years, theres plenty of unwanted oil out there to satisfy their needs. Now, they're not alone. For oil is a global business. In 2009, you produce its raw material and sell it for a profit. Part of that income gets reinvested in new production. Because of this, there's always enough oil being produced to keep prices going

Looking at the chart. 2. Add trendline and marks. 3. Open an order. 4. Adjust when order hits a price. 5. Save a new order. 6. Good profit! ----- This video explains how to price trade using trendlines. You'll find the trendline mark to be very useful when trading using our trading method. You'll notice on this chart that there's not only a trendline, but also a very useful shadow trendline. This is becuase you can use the price action in the upper shadow trendline to determine when to hit a price, then quickly close your position before the price reverses. You can use this to your advantage in ways that regular trendlines can't. You may be able to determine when the price goes above or below the shadow trendline, but not both. This is a great tool for those times when the price action is very volatile, and you can't rely on the regular t... Signup for a free account at and join the discussion The market is in a free fall.
