Diffuse, nonfocal nodular hepatic deposition of amyloid (AM) represents a variety of reactive histopathologic appearances of hepatic amyloidosis. To the authors' knowledge, the CT findings of diffuse nodular hepatic amyloidosis have not been reported previously. The authors report a case of diffuse nodular hepatic amyloidosis in a 62-year-old man who presented with right upper quadrant abdominal pain, diarrhea, and weight loss. Multiple small foci of increased hepatic attenuation on unenhanced and contrast-enhanced CT scans, with or without discrete foci of mineralization, represent nodular hepatic amyloidosis.1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to an electronic ignition system for controlling the timing of an ignition in an internal combustion engine. More particularly, it relates to a circuit in a microcomputer for calculating the ignition timing. 2. Description of the Prior Art Recently, an electronic ignition system has been developed and put into practical use for controlling the timing of an ignition in an internal combustion engine. In the electronic ignition system of this type, the ignition timing is controlled with a microcomputer. In this type of electronic ignition system, the timing of ignition is controlled by a pulse train having a predetermined frequency, i.e., for example, 50 hertz or 60 hertz. When the power voltage of the microcomputer is interrupted in the ignition control, such as when battery voltage is interrupted or when the battery has been recharged, the microcomputer is reset. Since the power voltage is interrupted before the microcomputer can start the ignition timing control, however, the microcomputer is forced to start the ignition timing control for a reset period, which is a time interval from the time when the power voltage is interrupted to the time when the ignition timing control is restarted.

obviously being reset every day) to be included in a SMS. The code below will retreive the text from 'parameter' and create and send a new SMS, but as the variable remains static, it will always be the same text each time (despite being updated). How would I update the code to reflect this? I am using the latest version of twilio with TwiML and PHP.
