The artists perform a short medley followed by one of their top hits. Artists voted by the group audiences as their favorites compete for the win against a panel of four judges. order to verify the validity of the [Guenther Report]"; the court held that the order was not supported by the evidence.) [12] Despite the court's most recent decision in Spring, this is a question that we need not decide because the trial court's July 15, 2009 order amended the August 19, 2005 order; however, on appeal, Spring reversed the trial court's October 21, 2008 order. [13] The Texas Supreme Court in Johnson v. Brewer & Pritchard, P.C., 73 S.W.3d 193, 198 (Tex. 2002), discussed the personal jurisdiction issue when it stated: "An order granting an interlocutory appeal is 'ancillary' to the principal suit and thus does not automatically stay the effect of the underlying trial court order or judgment." However, Johnson is not helpful to the facts of this appeal because the appellant was requesting a stay of the trial court's judgment and not an interlocutory appeal; in addition, Johnson was arguing the merits of his appeal. [14] The trial court's order provided, in pertinent part: "That [Shepperd] states for the record that she is not opposing the appointment of the Special Master and that she has no objection to the court appointing the Special Master." [15] The trial court specifically overruled the following objections from the "appellees" -- the Floyd's insurers -- in its order: "

I was reading a book and I encountered a sentence of adverbial phrase with the phrase "to the left of the line" in it. I can understand the sense of the phrase, but what does it mean linguistically in this context? A: The expression "to the left of the line" is idiomatic and has the following structure: [preposition + noun + 'of line'] "to the left of the line" = [noun] of line For example, you could say something like "the line is to the left of the curtain". In the context of the sentence you provided, it means: "We need to keep the chest at least 20 cm from the table, but the chest must be inside the line." I have some extra time because of the weekend so I've been thinking about my list and wondering if it's time to make a change. Obviously, the first thing on my list needs to be on the top. I play some games but never in any serious fashion, so my list currently is mainly filled with online games and I'm considering not going to Sea of Clouds anymore. Other than that I'm getting frustrated with finding the games online. I went to a game show recently and I could only find a single board game online for $90. It was a game with only a print version and I never came across it while browsing local gaming stores or websites. It's not like I'd see it at a bargain bin or find it at a thrift shop. This is a $400+ game that I won't even have a chance to play because of my lack of time. I've also been less than impressed with Netrunner lately, my collection of this is small and getting smaller. I can't afford new cards or buy sealed boosters on the open market and I don't like the Standard I see out there. I like NBN and I don't think I'm the only one who does.
