sinhronizovani crtani filmovi torrentQ: Inverted Index of Lucene: how many buckets do we need for search if we are indexing starting and ending document What is the optimal number of buckets if I want to have buckets [0,10], [10, 20], [20, 30],..., [9000, 9999] for inverted index with document id is the first word of the document? EDIT So we don't want to use inverted index. For example consider 10 word index. I have a list of words and I need to use inverted index to lookup for them. For example I have a document, text: "This is a test document". I need to look for "this", "is" and "document" in a text. So I have to split the text in to buckets, ["This", "is", "a", "test", "document"]. In this case do we have to split text to get buckets as mentioned or its ok if we just take 'this' and 'document' as a bucket? A: For such a highly localized term, you could perfectly just use search-within-document (or even edit distance scoring). But if you want to use inverted index anyway, it should be enough to just have the following buckets: 1) 40 With a bucket "search-within-document", which will of course have the highest performance. Edit: Note, that you don't need all the buckets. The first and last is already built-in so you only need the bits in between. A: 4 can be used in Lucene.net. The usage is as follows: index = Index.getMergedIndex(); VersionUtil.getBucketSize(1.0); // 4 buckets You need to have at least 4 buckets in order for the search to operate correctly. .
